

THE LEGEND OF ROY ELIAS

The Vault Arc - First Door

Adventurer: Roy Elias (Level 1 Rogue) | Status: Escaped & Riding North | Total XP Earned: 250 XP

Chapter 1: The Metal Token at the Fair

The journey began amid the noise and smoke of a crowded evening fair. Half-trodden into the churned dirt, Roy discovered a small, worn metal token scorched with the number '7'. Lingered nearby, a scarred courier named Kaelen searched frantically for the lost token, muttering under his breath in coded Thieves' Cant.

Roy kept his distance and followed Kaelen to a cramped local tavern. After a tense exchange at the bar where Kaelen issued a veiled threat, Roy remained unfazed. When Kaelen departed, Roy shadowed him through the narrow alleys to an abandoned granary on the edge of town.

Chapter 2: Interrogation & The Shadowing of Silas

Before Kaelen could complete his knock at the granary door, Roy struck from the shadows—disarming the courier and holding a blade to his throat in a dark alley. Under interrogation, Kaelen confessed that he worked for "The Collectors" and was tasked with delivering the metal token key to a contact named Silas. The token was one of twelve keys needed to open a legendary Master Vault hidden in the ruins of Oakhaven.

Knocking Kaelen unconscious with his dagger pommel, Roy spied on the granary through a splintered wall crack. Inside, Silas waited anxiously. When Kaelen failed to show, Silas doused the lantern and fled north into the night.

Chapter 3: The Forgery, Night Bargain & Silas's Fate

Roy followed Silas to a meeting north of town. There Silas met with a big man who threatened to burn the whole town. Roy couldn't let that happen and that's where he realized its tactical potential. He confronted Silas from the Shadows and offered his help and the latter agreed from despair and told him about Master Vane(one the Masters of the mysteries organization "The Collectors" that is looking for the tokens) and that he already holds token #3 and 8# and only missing the #7 which the three tokens open the first door .

Roy meticulously crafted a forged replica of the metal token with the help from an old man in a tavern. Then got some more information from the bartender who told him a rumer that the vault contains old treasure and a magical artifact that can track down and find anyone he wants. That's when he realized it would help him find his lost sister.

In the quiet of the night, Roy struck a bargain with Silas: Roy handed over the counterfeit metal token to earn Silas's trust, guaranteeing safe passage into Master Vane's expedition camp. Meanwhile, Roy cleverly hid the genuine metallic Token #7 tucked inside the lining of his boot.

Chapter 4: Descent into the Vault & Silas's Demise

Upon arriving at the ancient mountain ruins where Vane's expedition was excavating the catacombs, Silas presented the counterfeit token to Master Vane, claiming success. However, Vane immediately recognized the forgery. Enraged by the deception, Vane executed Silas on the spot.

With Silas dead, Roy stepped forward and offered Vane his help telling him he knows where the true 7th token, Master Vane saw straight through Roy deception and ordered his Commander, and two heavily armored mercenaries kill Roy. Roy killed one mercenary with a gagger straight to the head, losing it permanently.

Chapter 5: Tactical Control & Bloodshed

With Vane holding Tokens #3 and #8, the room erupted into a tense, deadly standoff. Realizing direct combat against Three foes meant death, Roy took control of the room. As the Mercenary Commander rushed forward, Roy scattered a pouch of steel ball bearings across the floor, sending the Commander crashing onto his back (Prone status). Capitalizing instantly, Roy lunged at the isolated second mercenary with his shortsword, delivering a critical Sneak Attack (19 + 7 = 26 to hit, dealing 16 damage) to kill him on the spot.

Roy pinned the fallen Commander under his boot, resting his blade on the officer's neck, and issued a cold ultimatum to Vane: "I don't need you alive to open the box." Intimidated, Vane opened his blood-bound coffer and slotted Tokens #3 and #8 into the mechanism. As Vane turned his back to insert the tokens into the lock, Roy cut the Commander's throat in one clean stroke.

Chapter 6: Unlocking Door 1 & The Clue Scroll

Taking precautions against traps, Roy forced Vane to press the final Token #7 into the lock. The ancient mechanism roared to life, revealing Antechamber 1. Here, Roy established the vault's true architecture:

- Door 1 (Unlocked): Required Tokens 3, 7, and 8. Contained ancient gold and the riddle scroll.
- Door 2 (Sealed): Requires 4 hidden tokens to grant access to the Inner Sanctum.
- Door 3 (Sealed): Requires 5 final tokens to reveal the Prime Magical Artifact.

The Inscription on the Scroll(Door 2 Clue Scroll):

"Four pieces bound by ancient blood, scattered where the shadows flood:

- 1. The First sleeps where the Drowned King lies.*
- 2. The Second rests beneath the Silent Crypt's eyes.*
- 3. The Third is kept by the High Cult's priest.*
- 4. The Fourth is swallowed by the Iron Beast."*

Chapter 7: The Great Escape

Keeping Vane at swordpoint, Roy packed a lightweight pouch of 100 gp in uncut sapphires and gold. Returning to the upper camp, Roy dropped a heavy satchel containing the remaining gold onto a table before six armed mercenaries. He reinforced Vane's lie—claiming the Commander died in a vault trap and that Roy was now Saved them.

While the greedy mercenaries fought over the gold on the table, Roy stepped into the courtyard, secured a warhorse, loaded saddlebags with fresh travel rations, and rode out into the night—leaving Master Vane behind and embarking on the hunt for the 4 tokens of Door 2.
